Lorraine's kitchen rules

Nearly two million people glimpsed world-class Blue Mountains luxury accommodation when two of Lorraine Allanson's B&B cottages were featured on television on February 29.

Varena and Leura Rose Cottage, both at Leura, were used as locations for the popular Channel 7 television program My Kitchen Rules.

Mrs Allanson said she was approached by the network last year about the show, which was filmed during two days in October.

"I actually thought at first it was a prank, to be honest, but it was exciting to be involved and great exposure for the cottages and the whole Blue Mountains region," she said.

Blue Mountains, Lithgow and Oberon Tourism chairman Randall Walker congratulated Lorraine on being chosen to showcase her properties to a national audience.

"I am not surprised that Lorraine's properties were chosen for the show — they are a great example of the many world-class luxury accommodation establishments we have in the Blue Mountains, Lithgow and Oberon region."
